Cooking for Two-- Your Cat & You is simply purr-fectio! I have made several meals for myself and my Maine Coon Toby. The beginning of the book includes a helpful "no no list" with foods that could be potentially harmful to your cat. The sections are: Snacks & Sides; Brunch; Dinner; and Dessert. Some of my favorite recipes include Spinach & Feta Frittata, Arroz con Pollo, and Blueberry Pie A la Mode. In addition to the scrumptious recipes, there are gorgeous cat illustrations and photos throughout the book. A great holiday gift idea for the cat lover in your life!

This book is wonderful and the recipes are delicious. Anyone who has a cat in their life that they'd like to spoil a little needs to own this book. You'll love the recipes just as much as your cat will. My cat is a very picky eater but she's enjoyed every dish I've made for us since getting this book. You'll also learn a lot of valuable information about what cats can and can't eat, which I think is really important to know in general to keep your cat safe. Truly a fun and wonderful book, wish I was able to give it more stars. Get this book and spoil yourselves!

I bought this book right before Thanksgiving, and boy am I glad I did! My cat was able to be included in all our holiday festivities right alongside his human family members. Based on recipes from Cooking for Two, and following the "no no" section, my friends, family and I created a little meal for Carmel to enjoy while we feasted on Turkey and stuffing. We even made him little leftover meals in the tradition of Thanksgiving leftovers! So much fun. I'm stocking up on more copies to gift to all my cat-loving friends!

So much interesting information about felines! Entertaining and educational. Great facts about what cats can and cannot eat. Love the dual recipes! Even purchased a book to give as a gift to our vet.

Two things: 1) I don't currently have a cat, and 2) I don't even eat meat, and I am very pleased with this cookbook. Recipes which will appeal to both cat and human are included for breakfast, lunch, dinner and healthy snacks: very small, simple modifications enable both human and cat to share basically the same meal. Recipes are unpretentious (hooray!) and there are plenty of vegetarian recipes to please even the non-meat eaters among us. Recipes will suit the persnickety appetites and dietary restrictions of cats and yet are palatable and delicious for humans. Holiday recipes are included as well (Thanksgiving for you AND your cat!) and each recipe has uncomplicated instructions and ingredient lists for both types of diners. Author Schultz provides lists of which foods are and are NOT safe for cats, suggests resources for making day-to-day cat food, and explains food techniques such as blanching and ribboning and includes handy metric and imperial conversion charts. Great photos and facts about cats are included (did you know that each cat's nose pad is unique, like a human fingerprint?). Cooking For Two - Your Cat & You is a practical and entertaining cookbook which will appeal to pretty much anyone who likes to eat, likes to cook, likes cats, likes striking photos of cats, and/or enjoys interesting quotes and facts about cats.
